

Claims

What is claimed is:

1. (Currently amended)

An upright book holder stand comprising:

a rigid upright acrylic assembly consisting of three detachable sections including a square flat bottom base, a tubular hollow middle member and a square flat surface horizontal table member;

a base member having a substantial flat bottom surface, formed of molded acrylic material, a mounted square designed cup attached to flat top side and measured to hold firmly upright tubular center post member.

2. (Currently amended)

An upright book holder stand comprising:

an elongated square upright tubular shaft member of molded formed acrylic with substantial measurement smaller than bonded cup designed to fit into top and bottom ends of tubular member, therein joining and extending between said base member and said top member to form integral part;

a hollow supporting tubular member opens on top end with cork detachable closure to hold writing material, or other small items for easy transport, tubular member can be detached and used without other two members as carrying singular case.

3. (Currently amended)

An upright book holder stand comprising:

An upper horizontal flat table top square assembly, having square cup equal in design and measurement to cup on top

side of base member, permanently bonded to bottom side of top member to hold center tubular member in place.

Orginal

Claims

What is claimed is:

1. A upright book holder stand, comprising:

a stand which does not collapse as one unit but with three separate sections completely detachable into three individual sections formed by lightweight molded material and bonded together;

a base section having a flat bottom surface with a square cup like permanent attachment extension on top side to hold center section when assembled;

a holder assembly including a square table top non slant flat surface supported by an easily attachable open tubular center section positioned between the top and the base of stand;

an hollow elongated tubular transport center section having four sides formed to construct square enclosure with top and bottom open ends enclosed with separate detachable cork and tube fits snugly between holder top and base by proper fitting according to measurements; also tube can be detached and used singularly to transport writing supplies and other items.